

This guide covers the care of your teak dining table. Your table is crafted from A-grade teak, and depending on the model, may be paired with a powder-coated marine-grade aluminium frame, a ceramic tabletop, or be solid teak throughout. A little regular care keeps it looking its best for years of outdoor entertaining, whatever the New Zealand weather throws at them.

What your table is made of

|                             |                                                              |
|-----------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------|
| Teak with aluminium frame   | A-grade teak top + powder-coated marine-grade aluminium legs |
| Solid teak                  | Solid A-grade teak throughout                                |
| Teak with ceramic/stone top | A-grade teak frame + ceramic (stone-look) tabletop           |

1 Caring for Aluminium Frames & Ceramic/Stone Tops

The marine-grade powder-coated aluminium frames and ceramic tabletops used across this range are low-maintenance by design — they won't rust, rot or fade, and only need a simple clean to stay looking new.

- 1

Dust or rinse first
Remove loose dirt, leaves or grit with a soft brush or a rinse from the hose before washing.
- 2

Wash with warm soapy water
Wipe down the aluminium legs and the ceramic or stone-look tabletop using warm water and a mild dish soap, applied with a soft microfibre cloth.
- 3

Rinse and dry
Rinse off any soap residue with clean water and dry with a fresh microfibre cloth to prevent water spotting on the tabletop.

Avoid: abrasive scourers, steel wool, bleach and harsh solvent-based cleaners — these can dull the powder-coat finish or scratch the ceramic surface. A soft microfibre cloth and warm soapy water is all that's needed, every 2–4 weeks or as required.

2 Understanding & Caring for Your Teak

A-grade teak is naturally rich in protective oils, making it one of the most durable timbers for outdoor furniture. Left untreated and exposed to the weather, teak will gradually change from its original golden-honey colour to a silver-grey patina — a natural process many people love for its relaxed, weathered look. If you'd prefer to keep that fresh, golden-honey colour, regular treatment with the right teak care products will slow this process and keep the timber protected.

| Option A — Natural silver-grey patina                                                                                                                                  | Option B — Maintain the golden-honey colour                                                                                                                       |
| Do nothing. Occasionally clean with the Teak & Hardwood Cleaner to remove dirt, mould and staining, and let the teak weather naturally to an even, silver-grey finish. | Clean with the Teak & Hardwood Cleaner, then apply Teak Shield or the Honey Brown Teak Protector to lock in the colour and protect against moisture and staining. |

Either way, a light general clean with warm soapy water and a soft cloth or brush between treatments helps prevent dirt and organic buildup — just be sure to always brush or wipe in the direction of the wood grain.

3 Recommended Teak Care Products — Golden Care

We recommend and stock the Golden Care teak care range — purpose-made products developed specifically to clean, protect and preserve teak and other hardwoods. The three products below cover everything your table needs, from routine cleaning through to long-term colour protection.

Golden Care Teak & Hardwood Cleaner

STEP 1 — CLEAN

Use for: Removing dirt, grime, mildew and grey discolouration from teak, restoring the timber before any protective treatment is applied.

How to use: Dilute as directed on the bottle. Apply to the damp timber and scrub gently along the grain with the green scrubbing pad (or a soft-bristled brush), working in small sections. Rinse thoroughly with clean water and allow the table to dry fully before applying a protector.

Frequency: As needed to remove staining, and always as the first step before applying Teak Shield or Teak Protector.

Golden Care Teak & Hardwood Shield

STEP 2 (OPTION) — PROTECT THE GREY LOOK

Use for: Choose this if you like the natural, weathered silver-grey patina and simply want to protect it. Shield is invisible and transparent — it makes the timber water- and dirt-repellent and helps prevent staining while keeping the natural grey patina look.

How to use: Apply to clean, dry teak with the application cloth, working thin, even coats along the grain. Allow to dry fully between coats as per the product instructions.

Frequency: Every 6–12 months, or when water no longer beads on the surface.

Golden Care Honey Brown Teak & Hardwood Protector
STEP 2 (OPTION) — RESTORE & MAINTAIN THE GOLDEN COLOUR

Use for: Choose this if you want to keep or restore that original golden-honey teak colour rather than letting it grey off. It's an easy-to-apply, water-based protector that maintains the warm honey-brown finish while also protecting against moisture and dirt.

How to use: Apply evenly to clean, dry teak with the application cloth, following the grain. Two coats are generally recommended for new or freshly cleaned teak, allowing the product to dry between coats.

Frequency: Every 3–6 months (more often in harsh coastal or high-UV conditions) to maintain an even, golden colour.

Tip: Golden Care also make application tools — hard green scrubbing pads for cleaning teak, and soft application cloths for applying Shield or Protector — which make the process quick and even.

4 At-a-Glance Maintenance Schedule

| Wipe down aluminium legs / ceramic top        | Every 2–4 weeks                | Warm soapy water + microfibre cloth         |
|-----------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|
| General dust / rinse of teak top              | Every 2–4 weeks                | Water, soft cloth or brush (with the grain) |
| Deep clean teak (remove grime, grey staining) | Every 3–6 months, or as needed | Golden Care Teak & Hardwood Cleaner         |
| Protect teak (grey patina look)               | Every 6–12 months              | Golden Care Teak & Hardwood Shield          |
| Protect / restore teak (golden-honey look)    | Every 3–6 months               | Golden Care Honey Brown Teak Protector      |

DO

- Do clean spills promptly, especially oil, wine or acidic foods, to avoid staining the teak.
- Do always work in the direction of the timber grain when cleaning or applying products.
- Do use plastic or felt pads under placemats, pots and vases to avoid marking the tabletop.
- Do allow the table to dry fully before applying any Golden Care protector.

DON'T

- Don't use steel wool, wire brushes or abrasive scourers on aluminium or ceramic surfaces.
- Don't use bleach, ammonia-based or solvent cleaners on teak, aluminium or ceramic finishes.
- Don't use a pressure washer directly on the teak — it can strip fibres and roughen the surface.
- Don't cover the table with a non-breathable cover for long periods while damp, as this can trap moisture.
